

Message on Flooding in Thailand

As a government agency, Thailand Convention and Exhibition Bureau (TCEB) is fully aware of your concern over the flooding situation in Thailand. We would like to state that your safety and the success of your meetings, conventions, travel incentives and trade shows are of utmost importance to us.

We would like to ensure that Suvarnabhumi International Airport which serves as a gateway of Bangkok and Thailand is still fully functional and accessible by all means of transport. Likewise, the central business district of Bangkok is flood-free and the businesses are still operating normally. The transport to and from the central business district is in normal condition, regularly served by BTS Sky Train, taxi, public bus and TUK TUK. All major venues and event-related facilities in Bangkok are still safe and fully operational.

Besides, other major destinations in Thailand remain unaffected at all and can be reached from Bangkok. Chiang Mai in the north is becoming cooler and receiving visitors as usual. The sea-side resorts of Phuket, Samui and Hua Hin in the south are also welcoming tourists as always. Pattaya in the east is still vibrant with a vast array of activities.

We are glad to inform you that TCEB and Thai MICE operators are now forming a united front to work hand in hand in strengthening our industry. Better services and better incentives will be soon delivered to make your events in Thailand memorable and accomplished ones.

We are always keeping update of the overall situation which is becoming better day by day and will keep you informed as your safety and the success of your events are of utmost importance to us.
